Security Tape & Labels

Tamper-evident security labels, stickers and security tapes prevent unauthorised users from tampering with a sealed item (such as a carton or pallet) without the knowledge of the legitimate user. They are manufactured from specialised pressure-sensitive materials which react upon removal or tampering, voiding the material with a standard or bespoke void marking. Our security labels are available in residue ("total transfer") and non-residue ("low residue") void material options – see our guide for more information on these options.

Our security tape is also available in residue & non-residue options, with/without security marking, environmentally-friendly paper material, as well as optional security numbering and perforations, for high degree of tamper-evidence. As well as our stock items (available quickly and in many standard sizes), we are also able to offer completely bespoke security labels and security tape, produced to your size, specification and custom requirement.

Security Labels

Security labels are tamper-evident stickers designed to indicate when a consignment (e.g. carton or pallet) has been opened or tampered with. There are two main types: residue security labels (AKA 'permanent tamper evident' labels) leave a total transfer void message on the applied surface as well as through the label itself; whereas non-residue labels (AKA 'no transfer' or 'low residue' labels) only leave a void message through the surface of the label itself. Our security labels are available in plastic or sustainable paper materials, for a greener security solution.

Destructible, frangible labels are another security solution; these labels do not remove in one-piece and removal attempts will cause cracking and fragmentation of the label material, making tamper attempts obvious. Security labels of all kinds increase the tamper-evident security of sealed cartons, pallets and packages – particularly in the pharmaceutical, electronic and food/drink sectors. They are available in standard off-the-shelf options or completely customised for your needs, which has the added benefit of raising the profile and reputation of your brand.

Anti Counterfeit Security Labels

Universeal UK's anti-counterfeit labelling solutions are designed to authenticate and verify that branded products are genuine and have been supplied through legitimate supply routes. Our highly bespoke and secure micro-optic labels use micro-optic technology to create visual effects which are extremely difficult to replicate or counterfeit, providing assurance against counterfeiting to both you and your customers.

The issue of counterfeiting is a serious and increasingly costly issue. It has been estimated that counterfeit goods now represent a $1 trillion a year problem globally, leading to financial and reputational loss to brands as well as posing huge potential risks to consumers. Our brand protection security labels provide a highly recognisable authentication measure, which can be easily and simply applied to primary and secondary packaging like master carton boxes, supporting documents, and directly onto products themselves.
