

DRY LINING

Fire-Resistant Dry Lining for Commercial and Residential Properties

Dry lining is an effective means of improving the fire resistance of walls and ceilings, forming part of an overall passive fire protection strategy. OCD FM provides professional dry lining services using certified fire-resistant boarding systems to enhance compartmentation and protect structural elements across commercial, industrial, educational and residential properties.

What We Do

Our skilled operatives install fire-rated dry lining systems using certificated plasterboard and related systems, improving fire resistance of existing and new-build structures in line with Building Regulations Part B.

We work from architects' specifications or can advise on the most appropriate system for your requirements, ensuring the correct fire rating is achieved for each application.

All dry lining works are carried out in conjunction with correctly installed fire stopping at service penetrations, maintaining the integrity of the overall passive fire protection scheme.

Works are fully documented on completion, providing an audit trail that supports your fire risk assessment and compliance records.
