Online Learning Explained

Online learning is an interactive, digital approach to studying. Immerse yourself in activities, videos, and podcasts as you work through a structured learning plan. Online learning is excellent for those who prefer a visual, practical approach to study. Most people learn from doing – so our course has a high percentage of learning from doing built-in.

All of our online courses are created to the latest syllabus standards. Built on robust and secure foundations, our award-winning Learning Management Systems (LMS) have been engineered to prioritise learner experience.

With you, the learner core to the course design, we have minimalised information overload. We are infusing knowledge with a vast library of multimedia content, including a wealth of video content

The Online Learning Experience

Our team of experienced Learning Designers has created the most effective tools and learning processes to help you prepare for your exam and to pass the first time.

The learning process is in two parts, and is unique to Astutis:

Learn Fast

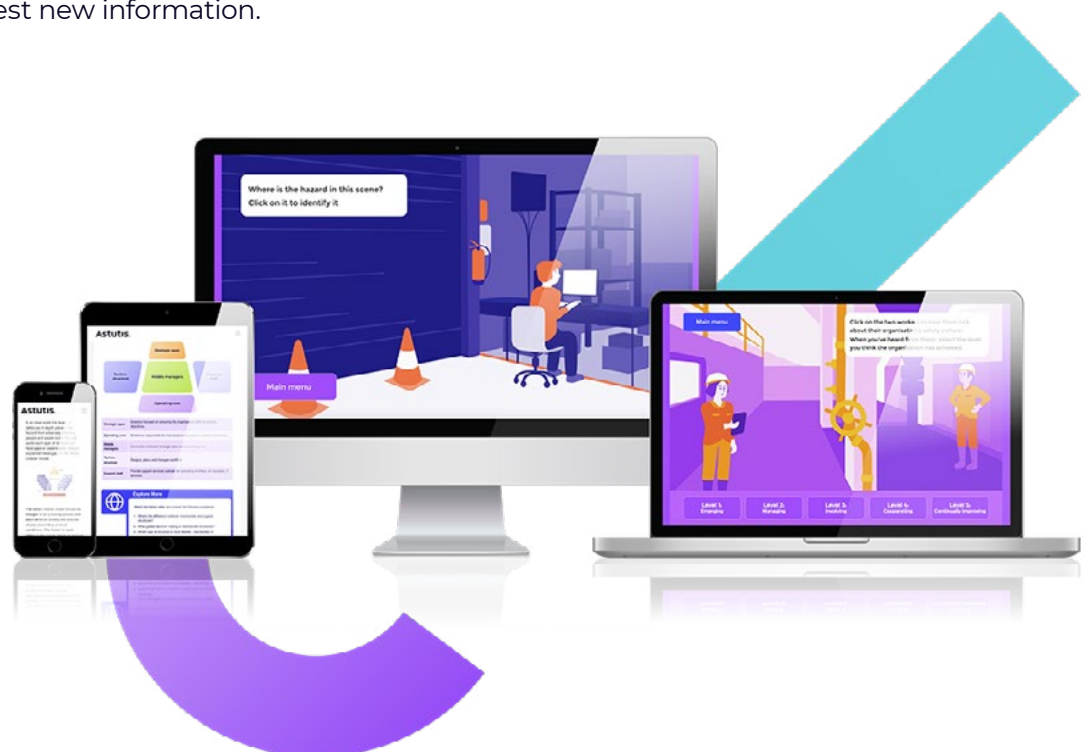

We consider how to get the information from the source into the brain. We don't assume that everyone learns the same way, so we use a varied mix of online activities alongside 'give-it-a-go' elements.

Exam Pass

We consider recycling the knowledge and the ability to apply it. Learning activities that help challenge your thinking and build confidence. Interactive, practical exercises along the way help build your confidence and allow you to apply your learning in real-world scenarios.

This process ensures that you have the best chance of recalling the information you need at the time of the exam – the right exam preparation at the right time to enable you to pass the first time.

We have designed the course to be as navigational easy as possible, similar to the navigational ease of a website, and with the additions of animations to check your learning and illustrations with visual impact to help you digest new information.

Assessment

Assessment format

The NEBOSH General Certificate has two assessments: an open book exam and practical risk assessment. You must pass both to achieve your full qualification.

Open book exam (NG1/IG1)

NG1/IG1 is an open book exam which you type and submit online. You'll be asked to carry out a series of tasks which relate back to elements 1-4.

The aim of the exam is to test your ability to apply your learning to the workplace. Your answers should be relevant to the given situation and, when appropriate, reference evidence from it directly. The overall paper is worth a total of 100 marks.

Practical Assessment (NG2/IG2)

NG2/IG2 is a marked risk assessment. You'll need to demonstrate your practical understanding of elements 5 to 11 and relate this back to the theory from previous elements.

The risk assessment is split into 4 stages:

- ▶ Description of organisation and methodology
- ▶ Risk assessment
- ▶ Actions and justifications
- ▶ Review, communicate and check

Each stage is assessed individually, and you must pass all 4 stages to pass.

The Astutis Approach

We take our inspiration from a variety of educational approaches, to put together a course for you that is engaging and participatory.

We support you to draw on and share your own experience, and we can also offer you tips from our own experiences and insights from other groups. Where possible, we give you new shared experiences in the tutorials that you can use to explore an issue or practise your skills.

Here are a few unique highlights of our approach to your learning experience:

Learner-Centred

Our learner-centred approach allows you to be an active participant in your learning experience. On the course, we are interested to learn about your background, needs, and interests so that you take away relevant and meaningful outcomes. With the tutor serving as facilitator, you are led into a virtual live classroom environment, including the opportunity to teach one another in your group through collaboration and personal interactions.

Collaborative & Interactive Learning

There are a variety of ways for you to collaborate with other learners on the virtual course, as well as additional discussions through our LinkedIn community of over 1000 General Certificate learners. Once you have completed your days learning, you will have the chance to think about questions in advance of the next day's session and have the opportunity to talk to your tutor either on the tutorial or on a one-to-one basis.

The Astutis Approach

Increased Flexibility

Our online learning course offers more flexibility because you can control when and where you learn. By self-monitoring your time and pacing, you are able to spend more time on unfamiliar or difficult subjects. To support you with your learning schedule, the online course has a special inbuilt tool called Astutis TrackSmart™.

Immediate Feedback

As an Astutis Online learner you will have greater access to tutors via email and are able to have questions answered by your fellow learners in real-time via group communities. In addition, the online course has tests and mock questions, constructed in a way to give you automatic feedback on how you are doing. This is beneficial for gaining understanding of any difficult concepts you may come across in the course.

“The course is easy to get through. I particularly enjoyed the preparation videos at the start of each element. They really helped me to zone into each section and focus on the course syllabus. I used the exam tracker tool to help me stay on track with my learning and I found that particularly helpful, especially since I’m not always good with keeping to a plan.
