

AMARESTONE

...love stone

TRAVERTINE

Travertine is an extremely durable stone that has been used for floors and walls since Roman times.

It is formed by hot springs bubbling up through underground Limestone resulting in characteristic small holes within the stone. These holes may be filled at the quarry and the tiles honed to give a smooth finish but they can be left unfilled and then the tiles tumbled to give a more rustic appearance.

Like marble, travertine has many domestic and commercial uses.